In 1977 the Department had been requested to conduct a survey of existing law in the legal and related programmes, with a view to determining what needed to be done to make federal law more accessible to the public. Using funds available under the former Employment Commission, the Corps Program, funds of the Department working under the direction of a law student, a law professor and a law professor adviser, gathered information on the programmes. The survey was to concentrate on the law as it existed and publish this in a Canadian Directory of

PUBLIC LEGAL INFORMATION

The Directory consists of a listing, with index and such of the law provinces, of the law of each province in French and an index volume, 2-999-18-24, which is intended to update the Directory in a compatible fashion. It is published from time to time in new or in an edition.

Without the effort of many people in 1977, the publication of this edition would not have been possible. The Department of Justice would like to thank all survey team who laboured with great enthusiasm and dedication on the task. In the law profession and among the many who not only were responsible for obtaining the data and reporting the results to the Department, but also for administering the project funds. In Manitoba the project leader in 1977 was Donald MacKenzie and in 1978 was Mark Mowatt. To them must go special thanks.

The Department is pleased to have the compilation of the Canadian Law Information Council in the publication and distribution of the Directory. The collaboration is appropriate

FOREWORD

In 1977 the Programmes and Law Information Development Section of the Federal Department of Justice undertook to organize a survey of existing Law for the Layperson materials and programmes, with a view to identifying what needed to be done to make federal laws more accessible to the public. Using funds available under the Canada Employment Commission's Summer Job Corps Programme, teams of students, each working under the direction of a law student project leader and a law professor as adviser, gathered information in each of the provinces. The survey was so successful that it was decided to edit the results and publish them as a national directory of public legal information. To fill some obvious gaps and to bring the survey up to date, the Department of Justice obtained additional funds from the Summer Job Corps Programme in 1978. While some of this information may be outdated, and omissions may have been made, the data contained in this Directory reflects, as accurately as possible, the situation as of August, 1978.

The Directory is comprised of thirteen volumes - one for each of the ten provinces, two national volumes (one English, one French) and an Index volume. It is the Department's intention to update the Directory on a regular basis and to publish replacement volumes from time to time as it appears to be necessary.

Without the effort of many people in each province, the publication of this Directory would not have been possible. The Department of Justice wishes to express its sincere appreciation to all those citizens, groups, associations, institutions and agencies who provided the information for the Directory; to the survey teams who laboured with great enthusiasm and dedication on the task; to the law professors and others who volunteered their time and expertise as advisers; and finally to the project leaders who not only were responsible for directing the survey and reporting the results to the Department, but also for administering the project funds. In Manitoba the project leader in 1977 was Donald MacPherson and in 1978 was Rick Woyiwada. To them must go special thanks.

The Department is pleased to have the co-operation of the Canadian Law Information Council in the final production and distribution of the Directory. The collaboration is appropriate as the Council is a Federal-Provincial body whose objective is to "enhance the quality and increase the availability of information pertaining to the law in Canada for the Benefit of the Canadian Community". Copies of this or other volumes of the Directory may be purchased from:

USER'S GUIDE TO THE DIRECTORY

The 1978 Canadian Directory of Public Legal Information - Manitoba is one in a series of 12 volumes which comprise a catalogue of public legal information available in Canada. A separate volume has been published for each province, together with a National volume (available in both French and English) which catalogues legal information available from Federal Government Departments, Federal Agencies, National Organizations and federally-oriented commercial publications. In addition to these 12 volumes, there is also a single-volume index which spans the entire 12-volume collection.

This Directory is subdivided into four categories: Government, Public Groups, Private Groups and Media. Public Organizations are those which derive their existence through statute and/or which receive government direction. Organizations are listed in alphabetical order under the appropriate category in the Table of Contents.

In the body of the Directory itself, organizations are listed together with their address, the name of a contact person and a short description of the functions and programmes of the organization. Following this you will find a descriptive summary of the law-oriented publications and audio-visual material which are available from that particular source.

At the end of this Directory, you will find two subject indexes: a subject index to organizations and a subject index to publications and audio-visual material. If you are looking for the names of organizations active in the subject area of "Women and the Law" for example, look under the appropriate subject heading in the "Organizations Subject Index" and you will find the names of such organizations together with a page number reference. If you are looking for "Women and the Law" publications, look in the "Publications Subject Index" under the appropriate heading. The reference is to the alpha-numeric part of the publication i.e. under the subject heading "Women and the Law" you will find M-210. Then, look up the publication in the body of the Directory; they are listed in numerical order.
